

Euratlas-Nüssli
Milieu 30
CH-1400 Yverdon-les-Bains
Switzerland
Tel. : 0041 24 426 13 50

End User Licence for France 1783

The numerical carrier France 1783 consists of digitized maps reproduced in the original edition of 1783. Thus, it is protected by a copyright and cannot be copied, nor be sold without the prior authorization of EurAtlas.

Using or installing the France 1783 on a computer, implies the commitment to respect the below terms of the End User's Licence. This document is intended for an exclusive use on one station. It is neither transferable nor transmissible. The data can be moved from a computer to another, under the condition not to be used simultaneously on more than one machine. The scanned pictures contained here are protected by the legal rules on intellectual property right.

The seizure, the digitalization and the fitting of the data are the exclusive property of EurAtlas-Nüssli, Milieu 30 at 1400 Yverdon-les-Bains, Switzerland, and cannot be copied or used at other ends that those expressly set up by the present licence that is:

- 1) to use, print and transfer in a data processing software the research results for strict personal purpose,
- 2) it is expressly prohibited to copy, to print or to use the pictures for commercial aims.

Euratlas guarantees this electronic medium for 60 days from the date of purchase. Each defective support will be exchanged on simple request accompanied by the deficient medium and the invoice of acquirement. EurAtlas is not liable for direct or indirect damages resulting from this data use. Under no case, the liability of EurAtlas could exceed the price of these data.

For all questions, a service of technical help is available to the following address: EurAtlas, Milieu 30, 1400 Yverdon-les-Bains, Switzerland or by e-mail: <webmaster@euratlas.net>.